Carrying American China Policy

Washington, Oct. 25. — The Secretary of State, Mr Dean Acheson, told the press today that the actual carrying out of United States policy towards China must be different now from what it was several months ago.

Mr Acheson made that comment when one reporter asked him whether anything conclusive regarding a new policy towards China had resulted from the studies of a special committee headed by Ambassador-at-Large Philip Jessup.

SOUTH CHINA MORNING POST, LTD.

London, Oct. 26.—Peter Beatty, wealthy son of the famed Julland admiral and grandson of the wealthy Chicago's department Store owner, the late Marshall Field, fell to his death from the sixth floor window of London's awank Rliz Hotel today.

Only a few days ago, doctors told him that he was going blind and there was nothing they could do to prevent it. He had suffered from a serious eye affliction from birth. Specialists on both sides of the Atlantic had treated him without success.

COMMENT

Speaking Of Statues

TIVES of great men used to remind us Le that of making statues there was no end-which was good for the marble cutters, and the bronze casters. The fashion has so far fallen out of favour that sculptors engaged in this employment have been hard put to find the jobs that once came ensiest. Rather the mode is for memorials of another sort-as institutions in the interest of public welfare, art and education. This mode is encouraged by the decay of hero worship, promoted by the changed view of history, which makes great men creatures of circumstance rather than creators of the great events with which their names are linked. Involved, also, is another matter—the difficulty of achieving dramatic effect when the marble or bronzeimage is presented in modern dress, and the decline of taste for the classic which enabled the sculptor to escape from any contemporary costume and achieve the heroic by giving his graven image the aspect of an ancient Greek or a noble Roman. It was not considerations of taste, however, but greed for metal, which has been so only in name. Queen Victoria's statue was recovered from a Kobe scrap heap, but the pulling down of the great rotunda to make way for motor traffic has left it without a fitting resting place. Another statue—that of His Majesty King George VI by Gilbert Ledward, ordered before the war to commemorate the Colony's centenaryhas been lying boxed up in the Government Stores for over two years, and there is still no indication when it will be put up, if at all. Our Government may have a policy regarding statues. If it is against erecting, or re-erecting, it will be, in line with progressive opinion. There are other good uses to which the money could be better put; one suggestion-a public library. Philanthropists likewise may be wisely guided by the example set by the founders of the Fung Ping-shan Library, the Tang Chi-ngong School of Chinese Studies and the Ruttonjec Sanatorium.

THOSE LONELY MONTHS

WIVES MAY BREAK UP PORTSMOUTH'S TRIP TO SOUTH AMERICA

By ARCHIE QUICK

Portsmouth's trip to the Argentine next May for a five-match tour is in danger of cancellation, says Chairman Vernon Stokes, owing to the players' wives' dislike of again losing their husbands for an extended summer holiday period. The tour is FA recommended, but the First Division Champions will leave the decision to the players themselves, and should the vote be adverse, will notify the FA accordingly.

Pompey are not greatly concerned over their partial lack of success this season. Manager Bob Jackson says that the league positions will turn upside down when the soft grounds come along. Manager Tom Whittaker of Arsenal clings to. the same theory, but nevertheless admits he is worried about Arsenal's three home defeats on the run.

Says Tom: "Arsenal must always be at the top; they must always be hitting the headlines. It is the life-blood of the club." All of which adds up to Arsenal's shortly entering the transfer market. The man they would like is Maurice Owen. the Swindon inside-forward, but the Wiltshire club are not selling.

Unusual Play Here Makes Extra Trick
